

Second Year Representative

William Harris

Intellectually stimulating, tough, time intensive, and competitive. That is the nature of the degree we study in. I mean, we are doctors, right?

However, our environment and interactions do not need to be so intensive. We already have seen after the first year that we are going to make great relationships in this degree. But issues remain, and things can get very tough at times during our study here at MLS. My job, if elected, will be your first point of contact for any issues that arise that you feel need to be addressed by the MLS or LSS. I feel my skills (besides being stream 5's memelord in semester 1) will be well suited to this task.

I will be more than happy to take the time to hear your concerns, and advocate for a solution on your behalf to the maximum of my ability. I genuinely care about everyone's opinion in this building. We are all equal and are all fluctuating between incredible triumph and desperate struggle during semester, so having someone who will hear your issues and act on them will be ultimately beneficial for your time in MLS.

I believe your experience at MLS should be not be any more stressful than what the workload makes it. I strongly believe that everyone deserves a say, and that if you're struggling or have a burning issue that you feel needs to be rectified that you have someone approachable to talk to.
